" Stop Press" - 3 Events Worth Attending

November 29th - Trip to Brize Norton

Peter Taylor is organising a trip to Brize Norton and a tour of the Control Tower on November 29th

Why not join us on this flyout?

Why not persuade your instructor to treat it as a navigation exercise - you both may benefit with the experience!

It's just a short flight (approx 30 mins), and it's not every day you can fly into an operational military airbase that covers a large space of central England, and understand that the voice in the headset talking to you when you are travelling south through their zone is only an ordinary human being!

With an opportunity to discuss Radar Services, the CTR, and flying within the Oxford AIAA the itinerary is:

- Depart Wellesbourne approx 9.15 am
- Arrive Brize 10.00 am
- Tour of the Tower - and a few other surprises on the day (depending on operational requirements)
- Lunch in the Mess
- Mid pm departure

Remember that night flying is also available on that day so you could combine night flying into the trip or talk to your instructor about starting a course.

If you don't want to fly why not be a passenger in one of the aircraft, or just fly an inbound or outbound leg.

This is an opportunity not to be missed email your interest to admin@takeflightaviation.com by 19th November latest as details have to be sent to their security.

December 1st/2nd The Flying Show

Take Flight will once again be attending The Flying Show at the NEC on Saturday and

Sunday December 1st/2nd

The very best of the lightweight flying industry will gather to show their products. Find out the latest news and grab yourself a show bargain from the traders on display.

New to the 2012 show, there will also be propeller carving, fitting and fabric covering demonstrations from experts in the industry. Website www.theflyingshow.co.uk

Opening Times:

1st Dec 10.00 - 17.00

2nd Dec 10.00 - 16.00

A show for recreational flying enthusiasts. Many forms of pleasure flying represented. Light aircraft, microlights, gyrocopters, gliders, models and more.

Trade stands showing and selling aircraft and all the associated equipment including instruments, books, clothing, intercoms, radios, navigation aids.

Seminars and demonstrations throughout the day. Real model flying within the hall. Find out how to get involved by talking to the association representatives and the instructors in the School Village.

The BMFA will also be organising the indoor flying area which will feature some of the country's top aerobatic and display model pilots and is supported by Horizon Hobby UK.

Featuring for the first time this year will be a display of model hot air balloons and also gas turbine powered helicopter demonstrations.

Indoor flying will commence at 10am each day with balloon, and helicopter demonstration flights taking place throughout the day (three each per day)

Listen to a packed seminar programme, including talks from industry experts and avid pilots.

It's well worth attending.
